INTERNATIONAL

Learning for life

SAT • PSAT • TOEFL • SSAT • ISEE

Introduction

In 1990, Bridges International founder, Swati Sheth, started her vocation as a teacher at Bombay International School. After teaching for close to eight years, she switched careers and later pursued her childhood aspiration to study in the United States. After completing a second Bachelor's and a Masters degree she worked in America for a few years in the field of social research and Human Resources. Not finding it fulfilling, she came back to her 'first love' of teaching so that she could play an influential role in 'developing' minds of students.

On her return to India, she started coaching students in various subjects, individually and in small groups. Soon, she started coaching in SAT and other admission tests. Having studied at U.S. universities, for both undergraduate and graduate study, she knows first-hand how crucial admission tests are for acceptance to top universities and for securing scholarships for studying abroad.

At Bridges International the faculty take pride in their teaching and in their teaching styles and methods. This has played a key role in successfully assisting students in reaching their academic potential, motivating them to aspire for higher academic goals, and their exceptional performance on admission tests. Therefore, at Bridges International, our endeavour is not only to prepare students for school and college, but to enable learning for life.

Mission

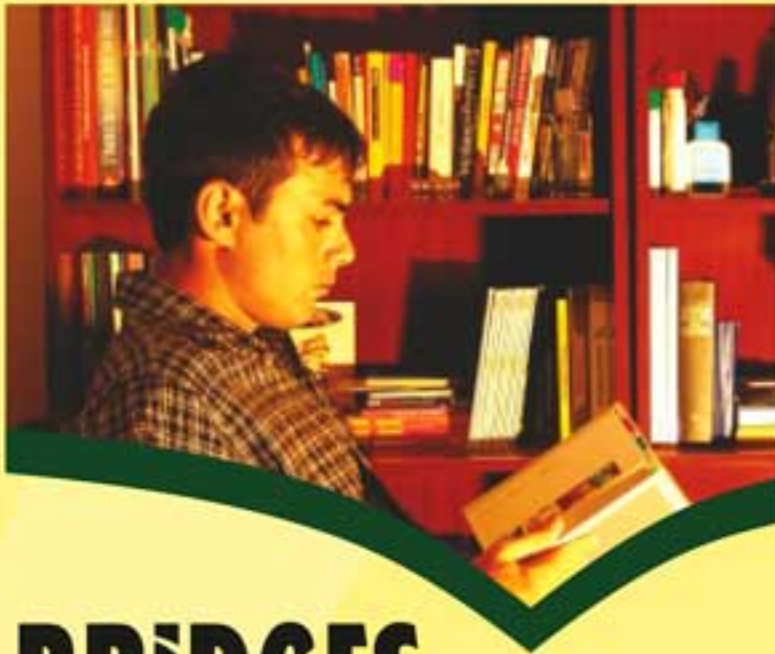

Our mission is to assist every student in 'crossing the bridge' successfully by preparing them and providing systematic and thorough educational training for the international college and school admission tests so they can gain admission to the colleges of their choice in the U.S.A., Canada, U.K., Ireland, Singapore, Australia, New Zealand, etc. Our aim is to instil discipline and learning skills that will enable them throughout their course of academic study, their careers and life.

Educational Philosophy

We firmly believe that every student can reach their maximum academic potential in an academic environment that is stimulating, engaging and motivating together with excellent teaching resources. Our belief is that motivation to learn can be fuelled by conveying the relevance of the subject taught to students - to their everyday life, their college aspirations and future careers. The teaching material is official, exceptional and challenging. Additionally and most importantly, the teacher has to passionately enjoy teaching and 'developing' the minds of students.

Personal attention is also very important and given to every student. This is ensured by getting students involved in their learning and giving them regular feedback on their progress. This can only occur if a student is taught in a small group or on a one to one basis. This is our primary philosophy of education which translates into our class size being small and which never exceeds over 8-10 students.
